Miami's Most Expensive Penthouse Listing Comes To Market For $68 Million

Terrace EIGHT SEVEN PARK

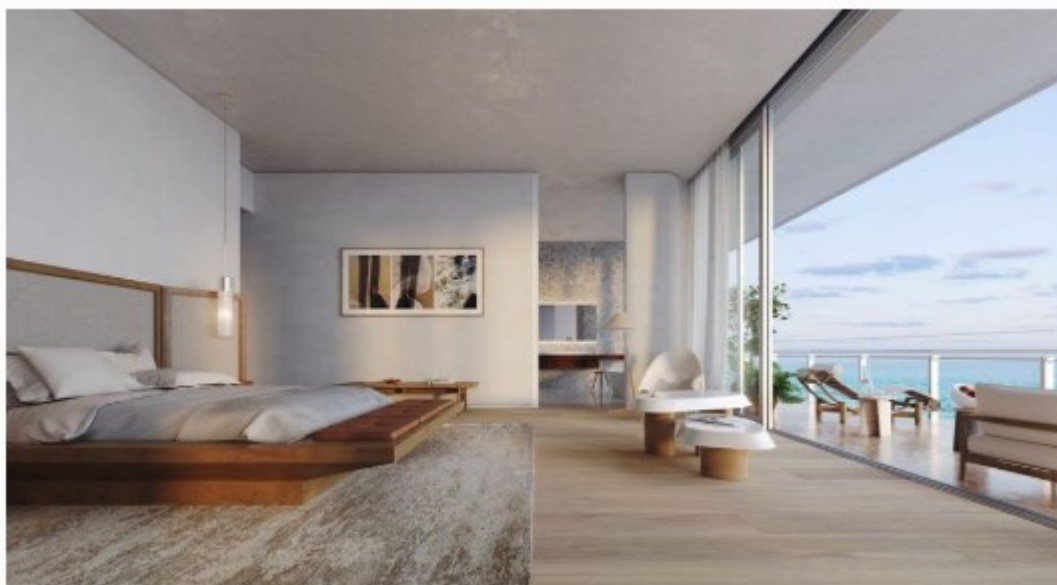

As Art Basel kicks off this week in Miami the city has a new listing to boast about that comes with everything you would expect for the highest-priced penthouse in the area: a celebrity architect, more square footage than its competitors, ocean views that go on forever and, of course, an unusual luxury amenity (as explained below). The 12,410-square-foot unit comes with an additional 18,000+ square feet of outdoor terrace. That means this $68 million condo is the largest penthouse space for sale in Miami if you combine the indoor and outdoor square footage. 🐦 (There is plenty more to be said about the growth of Miami's luxury market so stay tuned for a follow up that looks closely at those specifics.) The six-bedroom, 11-bathroom condo sits on the 18th floor of Eighty Seven Park, a building designed by Pritzker winner Renzo Piano that is already 80% sold and has at least one famous name signed on as a buyer, tennis great Novak Djokovic.

The entire unit has a subtle contemporary flair with features such as the curved staircase in the living room. In addition to the stairs there are also two private elevators in the unit.

The master bedroom is designed to have panoramic views of the ocean, either directly through those floor-to-ceiling windows or, since they can be moved, you can create an indoor/outdoor space and enjoy the views without any barrier.

Still life with a built-in? EIGHTY SEVEN PARK

There are two infinity pools, one oriented to take in the sunrise and the other perfectly situated for watching the sunset.

As for the other amenities, there's a home cinema and outdoor theater, vertical gardens, putting green, Jacuzzi and two summer kitchens. Plus, for that unusual amenity, there's a personal Turkish hammam (which is a little bit like a sauna and Roman bath combined).
