Exciting things have been happening in the real estate market in South Florida, but they all pale in comparison to the latest project from world-renowned architect Renzo Piano. Eighty Seven Park is a selection of cutting edge private Miami Beach oceanfront residences designed to seamlessly embrace park and ocean in Miami Beach's newest neighbourhood. Eighty Seven Park offers just 70 intimate residences ranging from 1,400-7,000 square feet, complete with 15- to 25-foot wrap-around balconies. The residences will offer unobstructed views to the ocean, park, Intracoastal Waterway and Miami skyline. The eco-conscious and elegantly designed glass tower will float atop a private, residents' garden to the North, the sprawling 35-acre North Shore Park to the South and boasts unobstructed views of the Atlantic Ocean to the East.

Additional information about the sale of private residences and real estate can be obtained from: Venegas International Group, Monica Venegas.
